Description

Call for Applications

Is your business idea the Next Big Thing?

Designed by the Research Innovation Office specifically for faculty, grad students and post docs who want to create and grow Agri-Food and Bio-Tech businesses, the Accelerator Guelph program launches in January 2018. The Discovery program is a 14-week pilot program focusing on market feasibility. Discovery offers weekly workshops, mentorship and tools designed specifically for academics with entrepreneurial aspirations.

Participants will learn how to validate business concepts using competitive insight and market research tools to create solid value propositions. Exposure to business management best practices will break the start-up process down into manageable steps that create momentum for start-ups.

Tell us about your business idea and seize the opportunity to take one of the six team-seats open in this critical start-up program.

- We are accepting Applications for Discovery now!
- Cost: Free!
- Commitment: 3 to 5 hours per week for 14 weeks
- Starts week of January 22
- Applications due by December 1, 2017
