

Gairdner Week Early Career Investigator Competition 2022

Sponsor

The Canada Gairdner Foundation

Description

The Canada Gairdner Foundation invites early career investigators across Canada to submit an application to present their research as part of the Gairdner Science Week virtual events in October. The Gairdner Foundation was established in 1957 with the main goal of recognizing and rewarding international excellence in fundamental research that impacts human health.

Eligibility

Applicants must be faculty or professionals at the Assistant Professor or equivalent rank in Canada.

Prize

Four investigators will be chosen to give 15 minute talks in association with the Laureate Lectures in autumn of 2022 and to participate in a networking session with the 2022 laureates. The talks will be broadcast live and recorded for YouTube distribution globally.

The talks must relate to the work of the laureates:

- Pieter Cullis/Katalin Kariko/Drew Weissman – lipid chemistry leading to vaccine development
- John Dick – stem cell biology
- Stu Orkin – genetic disorders of hemoglobin
- Zulfiqar Bhutta – child and maternal mental health and nutrition
- Deborah Cook – critical care medicine and health research methodology

The laureates choose the winners.

Special Notes

Please note that research activities carried out in the context of COVID-19 need to adhere to the University of Guelph COVID-19 research principles, policies, guidelines and processes as they may be updated from time to time and communicated on the Office of Research web-page [1].

Deadlines

If College-level review is required, your College will communicate its earlier internal deadlines.

Type	Date	Notes
External Deadline	Monday, August 1, 2022 - 11:59pm	If interested in applying, please email research.honours@uoguelph.ca [2] as you start to prepare your application.
