Designed for faculty, PhD or graduate students who want to learn new problem-solving skills by immersing themselves into the structure and function of an entrepreneurial company (industry partner) to experience and learn how new research and technology is advanced through the commercialization process. Learn how to apply your science by experiencing entrepreneurship first hand at a real company.

Two Grants are available to support the cost to enable researchers to spend 1 to 3 months during the summer of 2020, in a full immersion placement at an innovative company in your area of interest and research focus. Suitable companies for placement include start-ups, spin-outs, early stage private or even multi-national companies providing they support an entrepreneurial spirit and culture.
