Description

Created in 1998, the L'Oréal-UNESCO For Women in Science International Awards honours - every year - 5 eminent women scientists from 5 regions of the world.

The scientific fields considered for the awards alternate every other year between Life and Environmental Sciences (even years) and Physical Sciences, Mathematics and Computer Science (odd years).

The 2023 award will designate five outstanding researchers in Physical Sciences, Mathematics and Computer Science (fields now confirmed).

The selection criteria is:

- The candidates outstanding contribution to the general advancement of science
- The impact of the research on the current state of the relevant scientific field (number, quality, impact of publications, conference presentations, patents)
- Recognition by peers within the discipline through publications

- Recognition of the candidate's commitments to education, teaching, mentoring and/or the UN Sustainable Development Goals more broadly.

Eligibility

To be considered eligible for an award, the candidate must be nominated by an eminent scientist, such as heads of universities and scientific institutions, members academies of science, research chairs, full professors, and former laureates. At a minimum, qualified nominators must be holders of a Ph.D. The candidate must:

- Be recognized for her personal scientific excellence among the international scientific community,
- Be actively involved in scientific research,
- Be involved in any field of Physical Sciences, Mathematics, and Engineering

Self-nominations are not eligible. One candidate is selection for each of the five geographic regions (North America is one)

Prize

An award of €100,000 is given to each of the five laureates selected by a jury of internationally renowned experts.

Special Notes

Please note that research activities carried out in the context of COVID-19 need to adhere to the University of Guelph COVID-19 research principles, policies, guidelines and processes as they may be updated from time to time and communicated on the Office of Research web-page [1].

How to Apply

The Vice-President (Research) encourages nominations for this prestigious award, and will serve as nominator for those nominees recommended by the Honours and Awards Advisory Committee. If you wish to nominate a colleague or to be considered for VPR nomination:

1. We recommend discussing your interest in this award with your College Research Manager and Associate Dean (Research).
2. Complete the Expression of Interest document [2].
3. Send the completed Expression of Interest document and a CV to research.honours@uoguelph.ca [3] and copy your College Research Manager by the internal deadline.

As this is an international prize, the University may engage the Global Excellence Initiative [5] to coordinate external review of nominations.

Career interruptions due to parental leave, family care, extended illness, or community responsibilities will not negatively impact the committee's assessment of a candidate's research productivity. These will be taken into consideration when EOIs are assessed.

If your nomination will be submitted by a different nominee, and therefore does not require the Vice-President's endorsement, please submit a complete nomination and signed OR-5 to research.services@uoguelph.ca [4] by the external deadline.
