

New Educational Resources to Support Indigenous Research Ethics

In response to the priorities of Bi-Naagwad, the Indigenous Initiatives Strategy of the University of Guelph, new learning resources have been developed in partnership with the Ontario Federation of Indigenous Friendship Centres (OFIFC) to help guide ethical engagement between researchers and Indigenous peoples, communities, and lands. Visit the Indigenous Research Ethics page here:

- <https://www.uoguelph.ca/research/services-divisions/ethics/indigenous-research-ethics>

For more information on research ethics for the protection of human participants:

- <https://www.uoguelph.ca/research/services-divisions/ethics>

Alert ClassificationsCategory:

Research Management and Support

Disciplines:

Health and Life Sciences

Humanities

Information and Communications Technology

Physical Sciences and Engineering

Social Sciences

Source

URL:<https://www-research.uoguelph.ca/research/alerts/content/new-educational-resources-support-indigenous-research-ethics>