How high should you aim when submitting your paper for publication? What should your cover letter say? How long should you wait before contacting the editor to enquire about your submission? What should you do when the referee's report completely misses the point of your paper? How do you find a publisher for your book? Is writing a book chapter a good use of your time? What are my options for meeting the Tri-Agency requirements to make my journal article available open access?

These and other practical questions will be discussed in this seminar.

No reservation necessary.

All welcome!
